

It has come to my attention that the FCC is considering a change that could affect a regionally broadcasted national non-profit radio station in my area - KLOVE. I wanted to take a moment to make my appreciation and reliance on this radio station known to the commission. KLOVE serves me by allowing me a radio station that inspires me, is aligned with my moral convictions, and provides an alternative to listening to the average commercial radio station which is more interested in how many dollars I spend with their advertisers than my well being. KLOVE serves my community in that it allows families to listen to a radio station that is genuinely concerned with what children and adults alike are hearing and being subjected to through the radio. If KLOVE were not allowed the resources to continue their service my community, I feel there would be a large number of people in this community affected in a negative way as they would then be forced into listening to music and programming that does not align with their morality. KLOVE is funded by its listeners, that in itself should be enough support to show that there is overwhelming demand and support to keep this radio station alive, even if that means allotting it resources you are currently considering moving elsewhere. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.
